

Curator's statement:

All of the artists in this exhibition have volunteered their time and talent to inspire action to mitigate climate change. Please honor their work by taking at least one small action today to help our planet.

-Susan Israel, AIA, LEED AP, Curator and Producer

Energy Necklace Project is dedicated to raising awareness about climate change and sustainability using art as the vehicle. We produce public art exhibitions, community workshop/events, corporate team-building exercises and education programs. By promoting creative collaboration, we seek to encourage communities to work together to develop innovative solutions to the climate issues we all face.

Corporate sponsorship of Energy Necklace events is possible, as well as customized events or programs. Make your commitment to the environment and your community visible by partnering with Energy Necklace Project.
